

Michael K. McIntyre

Mike McIntyre is a metro columnist and feature writer for “The Plain Dealer,” where he began as a general assignment reporter in 1990. Since 2010, he has hosted “The Sound of Ideas,” a daily public affairs talk show, on 90.3 WCPN, ideastream, Cleveland’s NPR affiliate. The show was honored as best public affairs radio program in Ohio this year by judges for the Society of Professional Journalists of Ohio and the Press Club of Cleveland Ohio Excellence in Journalism Awards.

Mike is a graduate of St. Edward High School and Bowling Green State University. He was inducted into the Cleveland Journalism Hall of Fame in 2016 along with his wife, Elizabeth, publisher and editor of Crain’s Cleveland Business.